

THE SATURDAY EVENING

POST

FOUNDED BY

Benjamin Franklin

PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICE

666 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY 19

December 1, 1962

Dear Mr. McCone:

The controversial and hitherto unrevealed role played by UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson during the height of the Cuban Crisis is revealed in an exclusive, behind-the-scenes report appearing in the Dec. 8 issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

Based on intensive interviews by the Post's Washington Editor Stewart Alsop, and Charles Bartlett, Pulitzer Prize-winning Washington correspondent of the Chattanooga Times, the report provides an authoritative account of top secret sessions of the National Security Council's Executive Committee, and what went on in Washington during critical days over the Russian build-up in Cuba.

We thought you would like to see this advance copy of The Post to preview "In Time Of Crisis" beginning on page 15.

Sincerely,

C. Richard Ficks

1a/

THE CURTIS PUBLISHING COMPANY